Access to AboutMyProperty™ available at Middlesex County Libraries

Middlesex County Library is working with the Municipal Property Assessment Corporation (MPAC) to offer access to AboutMyProperty™, a new online service that provides property owners with access to detailed property assessment information - free of charge.

Through AboutMyProperty™, residential property owners can access property assessment information, site information, recent sales information and structural information about their own property, or information on up to 24 additional residential properties of their choice. This information can be used to compare an assessment to similar properties in the area and help determine if the assessment is accurate.

MPAC and Middlesex County Library understand that property owners may have questions about property assessments, and this online service can provide answers quickly and easily. Property owners will need their AboutMyProperty™ User ID and Password to login. This information can be found on the bottom right hand corner of the 2008 Property Assessment Notice.

Middlesex County Library is facilitating this MPAC project by providing free internet access at all eighteen branches throughout the county. As well, library staff will be available to help property owners log-on and navigate through the AboutMyProperty™ service.

Middlesex County Library is working to connect you with the information you need. For library locations and hours, please visit www.middlesex.library.on.ca, and for more information on this project, visit www.mpac.ca.
